Community Sergeant Update

PS Paul Begley

We have had a busy start to 2021, with the recent lockdown announcement from the Scottish Government. As you will appreciate with each stage of the pandemic it has affected Policing in different ways.

We remain committed to delivering the Local Policing Priorities and it is evident from the performance table that despite the pandemic and the challenges we are facing, we are doing all we can to keep our communities safe.

I am aware of recent announcements from Peebles, Hawick and Galashiels in relation to their annual events being cancelled and the message from Scottish Borders Council regarding the likelihood of early summer events taking place. I understand the importance of these events to towns and the disappointment people will have felt, however I do believe these difficult decisions have been made with best intentions and also made responsibly.

Whilst dealing with ongoing incidents, supporting our colleagues in NHS, January has also seen amber weather warnings for the Scottish Borders. The Police play a part in the emergency response to such warnings and we have been working in collaboration with our partners to keep every safe during these times. The advice from Police Scotland during the winter and particularly during any adverse weather would be to ensure your car is winter ready. For further tips and advice, please visit https://www.scotland.police.uk/keep-safe/road-safety/winter-road-safety/

With the current restrictions, there has been an increase in people exercising outdoors. One of our main messages for the month ahead is outdoor safety and is explained in more detail in our campaign section. Whilst we our own safety is paramount, I would also urge people exercising outdoors, particularly near farms, to please respect the land and local farmers. There is good information available on www.outdooraccess-scotland.scot

The Scottish Borders recently seen a number of incidents across the region where at separate locations, either a vehicle and/or persons have been seen acting suspiciously. The first incident was reported near to Cockburnspath and separate incidents later that evening were in Denholm and Hawick area. Whilst there is no definitive link at this stage, this is something we are currently investigating. Please can people remain vigilant, particularly in rural areas. If any vehicles are seen which are thought to be suspicious or people acting suspiciously, please continue to report this. We rely heavily on information provided to us by the public and this is key to us identifying who is responsible. We work together with our colleagues in neighbouring divisions as well as Northumbria Police and Cumbria Constabulary to share this vital information and tackle acquisitive crime.

Finally, please can I make you aware that Police Scotland has made reporting any breaches of the Covid-19 guidelines easier, this can be done using the online form https://www.scotland.police.uk/secureforms/covid19/ although this is not for reporting emergencies.

Local Policing Priorities

1. Protecting most vulnerable
2. Reducing violence and Anti-Social Behaviour
3. Reducing acquisitive crime
4. Improving road safety
5. Tackling serious and organised crime

Protecting Most Vulnerable

In January 2021 Police in the Scottish Borders attended and were involved with around 149 mental health related calls, around 25 missing person enquiries and approximately 83 Domestic related incidents.

Jedburgh & District area had 11 mental health related calls and 2 missing person enquiries. Due to GDPR and protection of victims/subjects involved, we are unable to share any more specific information in relation to these type of call within this report.

Police Scotland work in collaboration with key partners to assist the most vulnerable within the communities and to provide support.

Reducing Violence and Anti-Social Behaviour

On 13/01/2021 a vehicle was found insecure by police near to Hiltons Hill. Showing having no insurance it was uplifted and enquiries are ongoing to trace the owner.

Tackling serious and organised crime

Highlighted Campaigns - Take 5 National Police Scotland Online Scams and Frauds
Criminals are experts at impersonating people, organisations and the police. They spend hours researching you for their scams, hoping you'll let your guard down for just a moment. Stop and think. It could protect you and your money.

Stop
Taking a moment to stop and think before parting with your money or information could keep you safe.

Challenge

Could it be fake? It's ok to reject, refuse or ignore any requests. Only criminals will try to rush or panic you.

Protect
Contact your bank immediately if you think you've fallen for a scam and report it to Police Scotland. To help everyone stay safe from fraud we have some helpful advice for both individuals and businesses:
•Personal
•Business

Coronavirus
Some criminals are using the pandemic as an opportunity to trick people into parting with their money or information.
In some cases people are urged to "take advantage of the financial downturn", using emails and social media platforms to advertise fake investment opportunities in cryptocurrency such as Bitcoin. Others include criminals offering their assistance with Universal Credit applications, while taking some of the payment as a fee for their "services".
It's important to remember that criminals are experts at impersonation, using official branding and language used by trusted organisations and government departments to convince you their emails are genuine. These may include offering you or your business a government grant or a reduction in your council tax with links contained leading to fake websites designed to obtain your personal and financial information.

Remember to Take Five to Stop Fraud.

Mountain, Outdoor and Water Safety

With its dramatic and often challenging peaks, Scotland is an extremely popular area for climbers and walkers alike. However, at any time of the year the weather can change rapidly, turning what started out as a sunny day's hillwalking or climbing into a dangerous expedition.

If you are planning a trip it is sensible to take simple precautions before heading into the wilderness, to ensure that you do not require an emergency search and rescue.

Here are some simple - yet potentially lifesaving - rules to follow before setting out.

What should I bring?

•Waterproof jacket and trousers.

•Warm trousers and a fleece.

•Gloves and a hat.

•Gaiters.

•Good, sturdy walking boots.

•Rucksack.

•Head torch.

•Map (ensure it is the correct one, and protect it from the weather).

•Compass.

•Whistle.

•Bivvy Bag.

•Spare food.

•Small First Aid kit.

•Mobile phone.

What else should I think about before setting out?

It is also vital that you ensure all in your party is fit for the walk, and at least one person has the ability to use a map and compass accurately in mist, darkness and severe weather.

Always notify someone of your intended route and expected return time. You can do this by either leaving details with a family member or by filling out a Climbers Location and Identity Verification form. You can also access further information here, and at the Scottish Mountain Rescue Website.

What should I not do?

DO NOT:

•Go without being able to navigate

•Rely on rescue (take full responsibility for your own safety)

•Assume the route is over once you get to the top (half of all accidents happen in descent)

•Be inflexible about objectives

•Be complacent about the weather

•Rely on mobile phones

•Leave your mobile switched on (you may require all of its battery power if rescued)

•Dial 999 at the first hint of trouble (always think is 999 really necessary? If not, use the dial the police non-emergency number 101)

•Rely on Global Positioning Satellite devices (they are only an aid)

Water and Coastline Safety

Everyone wants to see our countryside and enjoy our waterways and coastline. However any area of water, including reservoirs and canals, can hold hidden dangers. Scotland has more than 37,000 separate stretches of inland water and over 11,500 miles of coastline when including both mainland and island coast. With many stretches located in remote areas, help will often be some considerable time away.

Take responsibility for your own actions and make sensible decisions to stay safe around waterways. The best advice is to be aware of the dangers, think about the risks and plan to minimise them.

Find out more about inland water safety from our partners Scottish Water at www.scottishwater.co.uk/takecare

To get more information about how to enjoy sea sports and Scotland's coastline safely, get advice from the Royal National Lifeboat Institution (RNLI) at www.rnli.org/safety/respect-the-water

General advice about water safety is also available from the Royal Society for the Prevention of Accidents (RoSPA) at https://www.rospa.com/leisuresafety/watersafety

In the event of any inland water emergency, contact the police by dialling 999. In the event of a coastline emergency, contact the Maritime and Coastguard Agency by dialling 999.

HOME AND PERSONAL PROPERTY SAFETY

"Prevention is at the heart of everything Police Scotland does to keep people safe".

You work hard for your property – protect it from criminals and improve your chances of your property being recovered if it gets lost or stolen. Here is some advice on how to keep your home and personal property secure:

CAT Update:

ANTISOCIAL BEHAVIOUR - During January the CAT have completed mobile and foot patrols of youth hotspot areas including Peebles, Kelso and Eyemouth, with a total of 7 alcohol seizures and other offences detected, including possession of class B drugs. Several ASB warning letters have been sent to parents of youths involved. Officers have attended a variety of calls in relation to ASB and possible breaches of Covid regulations.

DRUGS - CAT have executed drugs warrants in Duns and Hawick, with Class B drugs being recovered with a total street value of approximately £7040. Several persons have been stopped and searched and both Class A and B drugs recovered, plus a locking knife from one individual.

ROAD SAFETY – CAT have issued 17 traffic tickets to drivers for a variety of offences. IN relation to ongoing issues of Antisocial Driving in the Hawick area, 4 drivers were given ASB warnings on their vehicles for driving in an antisocial manner.
